

This Week's Service

Sunday, July 17th at 10:30 am
In-Person and streamed live from the sanctuary via Zoom

All are welcome to join Dennis Tromba and Nancy Byrne for a special discussion Sunday. Our topics for discussion are: When does a human life begin? What is the proper role, if any, for the state on regulating a woman's reproductive process?

We will host a light breakfast sit together around the table and try to engender the harmony of a reasoned conversation. All points of view are welcome. Interested parties may contact Dennis Tromba at: dennistromba@gmail.com

UUCOB News

Last Sunday's service "A New Day" with the Transition Team prompted many questions. Here's a recap of two of them.

Q: After our summer break, will we still have Sunday services every Sunday?

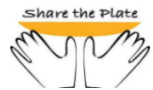

A: Yes, for the remainder of the year, at least. After that, we will evaluate what's working and not working and decide if we need any changes. We will always keep the congregation informed of changes as we go along.

Q: Is there any chance Rev. Roger would continue as our minister after his one-year contract is up?

A: Possibly. He and his family would like to relocate to the East Coast in 2023, and if he likes us and we are happy with him, (and he can find housing on the Outer Banks) we have the option to contract with him for another year or longer.

Share the Plate for July

This month, a portion of all Sunday morning offerings will be donated to Children & Youth Partnership.

CYP works in partnership with the community to offer a variety programs and services to ensure the healthy development of all children from birth through adolescence.

To donate: Visit our website: www.uucob.org and click on the DONATE button. After you specify the amount, you will have the option to select "Sunday Mornina Offerina".

With Deepest Sympathy

Our congregation is deeply saddened by the death of member Dick Liston. We send our deepest sympathy to Joan and her family with heartfelt thanks for all they have given to our UUCOB community over so many years.

A memorial service and reception will be held at the UUCOB. Date and time to be announced soon.

Reminder

SUMMER HIATUS
